

Today

(Reg. U. S. Patent Office.)
With Wales as King
Real Spending Ahead
Tribute to F. R.
Where Will It Start?

By Arthur Brisbane

Copyright, 1936, by King Features Syndicate, Inc. International copyright and all other rights reserved.

King George V, of England, is dead.

The world asks what kind of King the Prince of Wales will be.

Americans that have met the young man believe that he will follow the example set by his father.

When he was in America, the Prince was asked by this reporter which of all the English Kings, dead and gone, he would like to resemble. He made no definite choice, but his people would probably be well satisfied to have him follow in the footsteps of his father, King George.

If the soldiers get their bonus money, there will be some quick spending, enough to quicken the pulse of business while it lasts.

Four of New York city's counties alone would each get $18,000,000 of the bonus money. Kings county would get more than forty-five million; the whole of New York would get two hundred and twenty-one million dollars; and throughout the country, other millions and hundreds of millions would be poured out.

Merchants will get more than six hundred million dollars owing on past accounts, and the observer will notice many new overcoats, dresses and automobiles.

At the opening of New York's third and a half million dollar memorial erected to honor the late Theodore Roosevelt, one speaker praised President Theodore Roosevelt as one who "saw the necessity for keeping both the legislature and the courts in their proper places."

That perception showed a high spirit, but if some future Theodore Roosevelt should go too far in that direction, it might become necessary for the legislature and the courts to keep that President in his proper place.

England seems to get on well, with no King to keep courts and legislatures in their proper places.

Something unpleasant is bound to start somewhere in the earth, with all the new theories, new hatred, new armaments, new deadly weapons. It might start on the border between Russia and Japan's Manchukuo. When you read: "Russia uses force to halt Japanese," you know the explosion might come at any time.

All would regret bloodshed, but it would be historically interesting to see the ancient autocracy of the Mikado at war with the modern autocracy of Stalin. It would be a long fight, probably.

Mrs. Alinda French, of St. Louis, one hundred and four years old, attributes her long life to "hard work in her youth and a dutiful son in her old age."

She gets along without spectacles, is "not interested in politics," and is interested in "people who get over that," says she.

"After they reach world's old age," Mrs. French sleeps twelve hours a night, that explains some of the 104 years.

The human race gets used to everything. Once our ancestors shivered, fell flat on their faces, when lightning flashed and thunder growled. They thought some demon was after them.

Now men put up lightning rods, properly grounded. Once the comet was considered an avenging messenger aimed straight at sinful man, today its coming and going are understood and predicted, its path marked out.

In New York, on Sunday, in the midst of a heavy snowstorm, there came suddenly a violent thunder and lightning, burning through the snow. Such a strange phenomenon once would have been attributed to Divine wrath and clerical orators would have preached about it. Now it is referred to the weather bureau.

'EDWARD VII' --- HIS LIFE' NORTH SHORE BEGINS TODAY

Fox Hunt, Ball Staged for Prince

KING EDWARD VIII
Takes Throne of His Father

VISIT CAUSED SOCIAL FLURRY AMONG NEW ENGLANDERS

(This is the first chapter of the Life of England's New Bachelor King, who as Prince of Wales was one of the most colorful figures ever to capture the public's fancy. Throughout the most turbulent period in all history for royal families, he stood apart, the world's one universally popular royal scion. The story begins with his visit to Massachusetts in 1924, a breathtaking social round, in typical American style.)

By ALAN C. FRAZER

CHAPTER 1

The new King of England and Emperor of India had an unforgettable experience with American crowds on a brief visit to the North Shore in 1924—and the crowds had a unique experience with royalty's great pastime, fox-hunting.

Fox-hunting? Pardon me! There was no fox. This was not a hunt but a "drag." The scent was laid for the dogs with a bag of mice seed, dragged along the ground by a horseman an hour before the dogs were let loose.

And so the thousands that turned

NEW ENGLANDER FIGHTS TO THROU ROYAL FUNERAL JAN. 28

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN
A MORE QUALITATIVE PAPER
The only Boston evening newspaper with three direct news services
—Associated Press, International News Service and Universal Service
VOL. XXXII—NO. 256 TUESDAY, JANUARY 21, 1936 PRICE 2 CENTS
Printed by Associated Press at Boston, Massachusetts Copyright, 1936, by N. E. Newspaper Publishing Co.

SPORTS
STOCKS
CLOSING PRICES

EDWARD VIII TAKES OATH AS NEW MONARCH

CITY SCHOOL BOY RICHASES
ED

A new investigating body with headquarters in the Park square building, Boston, was reported actively engaged today churning up on alleged PWA frauds in the purchase of government supplies.

Secrecy masked the investigation made on request of high Washington officials.

Another legislative outfit of special probes from Washington is tabulating reports on alleged violations of title 2 of the NRA and PWA contracts.

They are contacting witnesses in a Portofino square building as well as leasing tabs on the investigating of the sale of merchandise to the Boston School Committee.

This 2 of the NRA concerns contractors engaged on PWA projects and wages paid violations.

It is understood the investigation into this violation involves at least six contractors in different parts of the state.

Assistant U. S. Attorney Arthur J. E. Carter admitted today he is handling voluminous reports dealing with these violations. He said grand jury action would follow.

STOCKS EASE

New York, Jan. 21 (AP)—Negotiated the majority of prices drifting gently downward in the stock market.

The closing of the London Stock Exchange and important commodity markets here restricted dealings, which were the slowest in many months.

Market Reports on Pages 18, 19

Today's American

AMUSEMENTS 11
ARTS AND LETTERS 11
BRIDGE (Mrs. Culbertson) 20
CEILING ZERO 15
CLASSIFIED ADVERTS. 23
COMICS 16
CROSSWORD PUZZLE 17
CRIME INCORPORATED 17
EDITORIAL 24
EDWIN C. HILL 24
LORELLA PARSONS 24
FINANCIAL 18
FLORE 18
GIRL ABOUT TOWN 24
JUNIOR BRIDGES 24
O. O. M. 24
MOVIE FACES CONTEST 10
NATIONAL 24
RADIO PROGRAMS 22
ROBERT E. ROGERS 19
SCIENCE 24
SOCIETY 24
"YOU FIGURE, MADAME" 12

CARVER DE LOGET BG
THE AMERICAN POST

Washington, Jan. 21 (AP)—Reports were current in the Massachusetts Congressional delegation today that Joseph P. Carney of Gardner, Mass., would be appointed to a high government post.

He is slated either to be a member of the Federal Reserve Board or governor of the Boston Federal Reserve District within a few days.

Carney has been supported by Senators Walsh and Coolidge of Massachusetts for the Federal Reserve post and in addition is reported to have the endorsement of Senator Glass of Virginia.

Also, Carney in a letter personal friend of James Roosevelt, the President's son.

Carney at present is the RFC director for New England. Previous to he was Internal Revenue collector for Massachusetts, and at one time carried the additional duties of Emergency Relief director for that state.

BUS HIT STRUCK, HOUSE TO PASS
20 INJURED BONUS QUICKLY

Middlesex, Ct., Jan. 21—Twenty passengers, 15 of them residents of Massachusetts, were injured here today when a bus bound from New York to Springfield and Haverhill, Mass., crashed into a hill.

The Massachusetts injured were: John Goulet, 35, of 15th avenue, Haverhill.

Miss Gladys Phipps, 30, Ayer, Mass.

Miss Mary Collip, 22, Collingville, Haverhill.

Paul Northrup, 35, Groton.

David A. Martin, 28, Leominster.

Name Keeler City Health Chief

Appointment of Dr. William R. Keeler, 58, of 6 Wyoming street, Roxbury, as health commissioner of Boston, succeeding the late Dr. Francis X. Mahoney, was announced today by Mayor Mansfield.

Dr. Keeler is Mayor Mansfield's family physician and attended the mayor's mother-in-law, Mrs. Catherine Roe, in her last illness.

The new commissioner, through his appointment, jumps nearly 100 per cent in annual salary, from $4000 to $7500.

It had been expected at City Hall that the mayor would name Dr. Frederick J. Bailey of Dorchester, who has long been deputy commissioner in charge of communicable diseases and who has been connected with the department for 32 years.

Dr. Keeler has been connected with the department for 14 years as director of the South Boston health unit. He is a graduate of Tufts Medical School, is past president of the Norfolk Medical Society, a board member of the city of Boston, and is married and has one child, Virginia Rita, 17, a sophomore at Radcliffe.

HOUSE TO PASS BONUS QUICKLY

Washington, Jan. 21 (NS)—The House, which was adjourned today out of respect for King George, will speedily approve the Senate's "baby bonus" bill.

The speaker declared that he had no information regarding President Roosevelt's attitude, although many high administration officials have predicted a veto.

No preparations have been made for a final session, such as that of last session, when Mr. Roosevelt delivered his veto in person.

Byrne said. If the President wishes to follow this precedent it will be arranged, he added.

The President's intention is "not," Byrne added, Representative Patman (D., Texas), will support the Senate measure, he said.

THE WEATHER
Overcast tonight, not so cold; with lowest temperature near 20; Wednesday cloudy, possibly with light snow; slowly rising temperatures to fresh southerly winds to south.

EDWARD VIII TAKES OATH AS NEW MONARCH

London, Jan. 21—The new title, King Edward VIII, was used for the first time tonight when Parliament met to give allegiance to the eldest son of the late King George.

The new king, the former Prince of Wales, had come to London dramatically by airplane—the first English monarch ever to fly—12 hours after he saw his father in Sandringham House, 100 miles away.

Captain, the Rt. Hon. Edward Alton, speaker of the House of Commons, was the first to take the oath. He swore allegiance to his majesty, King Edward VIII, his heirs and successors, according to the law.

Then he signed the roll.

The next to take the oath were Prime Minister Baldwin, Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, and Sir John Simon, home secretary.

This public use of the title followed a meeting of the privy council at which the 19-year-old King had given his declaration and received the council's oath of allegiance.

The privy council session was at St. James' Palace. The council, which was in session just under an hour, was presided over by the king.

Continued on Page 1, Column 1

Darrish Slayer Suspect on Trial

For the murder of Jack Darrish, more than a year ago, Frank La Follette, 35, of Suffolk County, went on trial in Suffolk Superior Court today before a jury quickly chosen, despite 12 challenges by the government and 10 by the defense.

Son Born to Wife Of Fred Astaire

Hollywood, Jan. 21 (AP)—Fred Astaire, nimble-footed dancer, had something to kick his heels over today. A son was born to his wife, the former Phyllis Livingston Foster, New York society figure. The boy weighed 8½ pounds.

Balances and Receipts
Washington, Jan. 21—Today's Treasury balance, $2,072,141; U. S. Customs receipts, $23,684,476.

HIALEAH PARK RESULTS

First—Fincher, 97 (M. Fallon), 30.40, 10.00, 5.40; Wiggle In, 101 (I. Anderson), 4.00, 2.60; Peerless Pal, 106 (I. Longden), 3.60. Off 2:24. Also ran—Fractious, Double Finesse, Close Call, A. O'Connell, Lady Grandee, Red Spar, Westday, Count Me, Fanie.

'TRIAL TO LIVE UNTIL 1936,' CALIF. LYNCHER PROBER

BETTY GOW TELLS OF NIGHT SHE FOUND BABY GONE

Why, a little less than a year ago, was Bruno Richard Hauptmann adjudged guilty by a jury of the murder of Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr.? Was Governor Hoffman justified in granting him a reprieve?

Much of the testimony at the Flamingham trial is dimly remembered. To show how this testimony convicted Hauptmann, the Boston Evening American is publishing it, with only the non-essentials eliminated, as it appears in the official trial record. In addition, more recent circumstances relating with the testimony are placed in their proper sequences. This is the fourth installment.

New York, Jan. 21.—As Anne Lindbergh, fingering a piece of flannel, proved that it was her baby who was buried in a woodland grave in the "Southeastern" case, Betty Gow provided evidence that the child was dead even before his kidnaper had fled from the Lindbergh estate.

It was her discovery of the little thumb guard lying in the middle of the room between the house and gatehouse that gave the statement this important information.

The guard fell off, more likely was ripped off, in removing the baby's sleeping suit. And why was the sleeping suit removed unless the baby was dead?

MONTH LATE

Betty Gow's discovery was not made until a month after the kidnapping, and all that time an army of investigators had tramped the road. The defense seized on that fact as it but the state simply said:

"Well, she did find it, and here she is to tell about it."

Mrs. Whately's earliest theory was a repetition of that of Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh. She believed the baby had been taken to the airport, where she saw the plane take off. She believed the baby was taken to the airport, where she saw the plane take off. She believed the baby was taken to the airport, where she saw the plane take off.

HUSBAND AWAY

On cross examination Attorney Edward J. Kelly reached new heights of innuendo. He got from Mrs. Whately the fact that her husband, Oliver, was not with her the night of March 1, 1932, when the baby was taken.

Q—How long were you and Betty in the house that night?

A—From about 9 till 10 o'clock; just an hour.

Q—Now, your husband enjoyed good health, did he not?

A—Yes, he did.

Q—At what part, when was your husband stricken, what month?

A—It was in May, 1933.

Q—And you don't know whether he was visited a few days before his sudden attack of pneumonia by Department of Justice men, do you?

Q—Yes, he did.

Q—At what part, when was your husband stricken, what month?

A—It was in May, 1933.

Q—And you don't know whether he was visited a few days before his sudden attack of pneumonia by Department of Justice men, do you?

A—Yes, he did.

Q—At what part, when was your husband stricken, what month?

A—It was in May, 1933.

Q—And you don't know whether he was visited a few days before his sudden attack of pneumonia by Department of Justice men, do you?

A—Yes, he did.

Q—At what part, when was your husband stricken, what month?

A—It was in May, 1933.

Q—And you don't know whether he was visited a few days before his sudden attack of pneumonia by Department of Justice men, do you?

A—Yes, he did.

Q—At what part, when was your husband stricken, what month?

A—It was in May, 1933.

Q—And you don't know whether he was visited a few days before his sudden attack of pneumonia by Department of Justice men, do you?

A—Yes, he did.

Q—At what part, when was your husband stricken, what month?

A—It was in May, 1933.

Q—And you don't know whether he was visited a few days before his sudden attack of pneumonia by Department of Justice men, do you?

A—Yes, he did.

Q—At what part, when was your husband stricken, what month?

A—It was in May, 1933.

Q—And you don't know whether he was visited a few days before his sudden attack of pneumonia by Department of Justice men, do you?

A—Yes, he did.

Say They Saw "Lost" Medfield Boy in Auto

ALBERTA VIRGINIA

(Picture from International News Photograph Service)

BURTON EDITH

These boy and girl neighbors of three-year-old Dale Tibbitts of Medfield say they believe they saw the "lost" boy being taken away in a gray automobile. The youthful witnesses are Burton Rawding, 13; Edith Rawding, 14; Virginia Rawding, 11, all of Medfield. They live next door to the Tibbitts family. Corroborating their story is that of Mrs. Caroline Rapley of Millis. She says she saw a gray car pass her house with a small boy peering out of the car's rear window. The boy was Dale Tibbitts, she feels sure.

Q—No, I really don't know. A—He died while you were around? ON WAY HOME. A—When I was coming home, yes. Q—When you were coming home, and the cause, they told you were perishing? A—Yes. Q—But before that he had almost died? A—Yes, he had.

The defense's suggestion was obvious that there was something sinister about Gills Whately's death. Even though the defense was careful not to inquire too closely about the case of the baby's death.

Betty Gow came next. She told the well remembered story of being summoned from Englewood to Hopewell by Anne Lindbergh because the baby had a cold. She described her day and how she put the baby to bed that night.

I gave him some phylloxera. In taking him he split some on his night clothes. Q—He didn't like the phylloxera? A—No, I understood him again and decided that I would have time to make him a proper little flannel shirt to put on next to his skin. I didn't have sewing materials there, so I asked Mrs. Lindbergh when I went out of the room to get material from Mrs. Whately, whom I thought would have some. I went down to the kitchen where she gave me scissors, and she said she would look for thread and bring it to me. I went back up to the nursery. Mrs. Lindbergh came and I cut the shirt out. Mrs. Whately came and she said she would bring the thread. I stitched it up very hurriedly and put it on the baby, having rubbed him with Vicks.

IDENTIFIER CLOTHES

She identified the shirt, even to the thread. That clothes was on the body found in the woods two months after the kidnapping. She identified the sleeping suit worn by the kidnaper, and then the thumb guard.

Q—Will you tell us how you were afflicted? A—The metal part over his thumb, the tapes across his wrist of his sleeping suit twice, tied in a knot.

Q—In other words, I suppose that the purpose of tying it around twice and in a knot was to see if it was securely fastened? A—Yes.

But Attorney General Wilentz was saving the story of her discovery of the baby's body to the night of the kidnapping.

Q—Did you see the light out in the baby's room? A—I did. Q—Did you and Mrs. Whately have supper together? A—We had supper together.

Q—Where was Mr. Whately at the time? A—Mr. Whately was in the nursery. Q—Did he serve you or you folks serve yourselves? A—Oh, we served ourselves.

Q—And that was about midnight? A—That would be about half past eight. We heard Colonel Lindbergh's car coming in; he passed through the kitchen and spoke to me in passing. I told the condition of the baby; and then Mrs. Whately bled me again. I believe, at that time I received a telephone call from a friend of mine.

NAMES JOHNSON

Q—What was the name of the man who called you? A—Mr. Henry Johnson. Q—And then what? A—On completing that I came back to our living room. Q—Did you see the man who finally leaves the downstairs quarters at the kitchen and the living room? A—Yes.

Q—Until a few minutes before ten o'clock? A—Yes. Q—And then what happened? A—I looked at my watch and saw it was almost 10 o'clock. I said, "I must go to the baby to bed." I immediately got up and walked along the upper hall passage to the baby's bedroom.

Q—Into the bathroom and then the bedroom? A—Yes. Q—The nursery? When you got in there, what did you find? A—I found things exactly—I didn't put any light up, but I saw the door of the room open so that the light from the hall would come in.

Q—Go ahead. A—Crossed to the window and closed it, plugged in the electric heater and stood for about one minute waiting for the room to lose its chill. I then crossed to the cot and bent over with my hands on the rail and discovered I couldn't hear the baby breathe. I thought that Mrs. Lindbergh may have him. I went out of the baby's room into the hallway and into Mrs. Lindbergh's room. I met her and saw her coming out of the baby's room. I asked her if she had the baby. She looked surprised and said, "No, she didn't."

I said, "Well, where is the baby?" She said, "Down stairs in the library." I turned quickly and ran downstairs to the library where I saw the color of the baby's room. I said, "I don't know where you have the baby. It's in the library."

He ran past me upstairs and into the baby's room. I followed him and from there entered Mrs. Lindbergh's room. He didn't say anything. He ran into his closet, came out again with a rifle and all three of us went into the baby's room. He said, "Anne, they have stolen our baby."

Q—And what else did you observe about the room that was different from the time when you had left it when the child had been in the room? A—The only thing I plainly recall seeing was a dirty smudge on the bed clothes, the sheet of the baby's crib.

Could this smudge have been that of Dr. John F. Condon is now pleased to call himself a "lost" boy. It is strange that neither Colonel nor Mrs. Lindbergh mentioned the smudge while testifying. In fact, the smudges on the bedsheet were not mentioned until Attorney General Wilentz brought out evidence of the fact.

Q—The smudges on the bedsheet when it was disturbed. Yanked, and it head hit up against that board? A—Yes. Here is a minor mystery—perhaps not so minor at that.

Quincy fire department officers went to the Medfield factory today to learn how to work three new pumping engines, just purchased by the city.

The instructions are regarding the valves and the water, which goes round and round before coming out of the hose nozzle.

SEES PRISON NEW REPRIEVE

Trenton, N. J., Jan. 21 (AP)—Bruno Richard Hauptmann, condemned murderer of Baby Lindbergh, will escape the electric chair tomorrow, just unless Governor Harold G. Hoffman becomes satisfied in the meantime that complete solution of the crime will accompany the execution.

This was the advice today of one who is close to the renewed investigation of the Lindbergh murder.

"The governor is fully determined to keep Hauptmann alive until the end of his term, in 1938, if necessary to effecting a complete solution of the case," this informant said.

"He is unconvinced that only one man took part in the crime. He is dissatisfied with conflicting evidence and statements which helped convict Hauptmann, and he has some sensational leads, never made public, which may lead to the full solution of the crime. These leads are being investigated and will be reported to the governor."

PLANS NEW PRISON

The governor himself told reporters that he felt sure the "real story" of the crime would be told. He added, significantly, that he hoped the story would be told before Hauptmann walked the last of his term.

At the same time the governor confirmed an international news service story that he will definitely order the law enforcement agencies of the state to "reopen" the case.

While even the reprieve granted by Hoffman last week to save Hauptmann had been declared illegal in an opinion from the state attorney-general's office, there is no power to stay the Governor's hand if he decides to reprieve Hauptmann until the end of his term.

Further reprieves may be expected to accrue even more bitter controversy than that required to get the Governor now. However, in the present instance, threats of impeachment proceedings against him have been completely abandoned.

HTS OLD AGE PENSION

The governor addressed a joint session of the Legislature last night and there was not so much as a peep from the floor about his activities in the Lindbergh case. Instead he received an ovation from packed galleries when he attacked the social security program of the National Administration, suggesting a challenge of its constitutionality and proposing state unemployment insurance.

Observers regarded the speech, which was broadcast, as a direct bid by the speaker, determined little official for the Republican nomination for vice-president—after the death of the late Mr. Hoover.

He was followed in the chair by Walter Kennedy, 23, killer of John Dill, in the mortal case made by a bullet, it was fired from inside the ship.

LIFE SPINAL RAN FREE

Despite the meagre quarantine at Bridgewater State Farm and the death of a former prisoner on Sunday, a day after he had been released—50 more prisoners were discharged and sent out to mingle with the public today.

Officials at the State Farm declared they had no recourse but to let the men go, because the State Health Department and the parole board had sanctioned the release.

On Sunday Roxcoe Out of Oak Street, Portland, Me., alias James O'Connor of Taylor street, South End, was released from the guarded institution.

Memo appeared after his release, Cutler, still under the name O'Connor, was arrested by South End police and a charge of drunkenness lodged against him. He was seriously ill in the city Sunday morning and was sent to City Hospital, where he died the next day.

Sixteen police officers and prison guards and one prison officer were undergoing medical tests today to determine if they had been afflicted during their contact with Cutler.

MAJOR ROULED IN SNOW CASE

Mayor Mansfield was called to the witness stand today in Superior court on the hearing on a petition by 12 taxpayers to block the city's purchase of 52 snow removal trucks from the White Motor Car Co.

Mr. Mer was called by Attorney Bernard Gould, for the petitioners, and questioned by Gould, admitted his experience in buying snow removal equipment was limited to the time he has been in office.

Purchasing of such equipment, he said, was done by the superintendent of supplies upon the recommendation of the city engineer, stated that, in his opinion, the White trucks are quite superior to meet city specifications.

Proceeding the mayor on the stand, Charles E. Howard, city engineer, stated that, in his opinion, the White trucks are quite superior to meet city specifications.

Lynn Man Injured, Found in Hallway

Suffering concussion of the brain, a broken hand and an abrasion over the left eye, John Gilbert, 35, of Union street, Lynn, was found in a hallway of the city hall today.

He was taken to Lynn Hospital but was unable to tell how he was injured. He believes he was victim of a beating.

Drifts Maroon 17 Boy Scouts in Camp

Blairtown, N. J., Jan. 21 (AP)—Recus parties were camped here today to take for 17 boys, trapped by huge snowdrifts, in two mountain camps north of here.

Fifteen Boy Scouts of England were trapped in the snowdrifts, while two others occupied the second cottages. All were forced to remain in the camps by Sunday's snowstorm.

Myers Is Boston Labor Director

Howard Myers, New York economist, has been named as director of the National Labor Relations board in Boston. He formerly served on the NLRB Labor Advisory board.

Daily Tax Fact

By B. C. FORBES

The pet hatred of all the many hatreds of New Dealers, has been the utility industry.

Capital punishment, has been passed on utility holding companies, on none others.

More federal money—taxpayers' money—has been diverted to driving out of business utility companies than any other class of enterprise—federal projects calling for enormous expenditures of $16,632,000 have been adopted.

Yet, the utility industry is absorbing the nation's very largest payers of taxes.

Take one typical company, Pacific Gas & Electric. Vice-President John P. Coughlin informs us that this year, after allowing for operating costs and fixed charges, "all of the company's operating employment" is the capital stock of its 95,000 stockholders must work four months to produce enough net income to pay our annual tax bill.

Payroll of 10,000 workers, $18,000,000. Taxes, $13,000,000, or 72 cents for every dollar paid in wages.

HTS OLD AGE PENSION. Taxpayers are now eating the bread of wage earners? (Copyright, 1934, by B. C. Forbes)

Two Tennessee Slayers Die in Chair

Nashville, Tenn., Jan. 21 (AP)—One man convicted of killing his grandmother and another charged with the murder of a woman, were electrocuted today in Tennessee's first double execution.

Bill Lee, 24, of Tullahoma, Tenn., was executed for the murder of his grandmother, and the other man, John Dill, 23, was executed for the murder of a woman.

He was followed in the chair by Walter Kennedy, 23, killer of John Dill, in the mortal case made by a bullet, it was fired from inside the ship.

Morgan Memorial Budgets Increase

At the All-Workers conference of the Morgan Memorial budget for 1936 totaling $660,185 was adopted. It is more than a 12 per cent increase over 1935 and represents the continuous growth of this institution in the service of the underprivileged and unemployed, Dr. E. J. Hogan, superintendent, said today.

Truck drivers received recognition for having operated their machines during 1935 without mishap.

INLAID LINOLEUM

THE BEST TIME TO BUY GOOD LINOLEUM IS THE FIRST TIME

—and the most economical time to buy your new linoleum is in January, at Pray's. Any linoleum you choose here will be laid in expert fashion. Our selection of the largest in New England, is filled with gay, bright patterns—lastingly beautiful, easy to clean. We will completely install a 5½" floor for as little as $21.48.

Bennett Girls Fly To Father's Side

New York, Jan. 21 (AP)—The three daughters of Richard Bennett, veteran actor, when in his stock room today in Harbor Bantam after two of them, Joan and Constance, flew across the country to his home in New York.

Hospital officials announced that Bennett had a restful night and his condition is unchanged.

When they arrived in Newark, New Jersey, the girls were met at the airport by their sister, Barbara.

Barbara Holmes is waiting for a man named Yea who is in the Free Rental Bureau, on the fourth floor of R. H. White's.

"YOU DON'T HAVE TO BE RICH TO ENJOY RICH WHISKY!"

SCHENLEY'S OLD QUAKER BRAND STRAIGHT WHISKY

IF YOU CAN'T COME IN CALL HANCOCK 3000. A Pray idea man will bring samples to you. No obligation.

PRAY'S

646 Washington St. opposite Boston

GLASS PRICES IN BOSTON!

YOUR CHOICE OF 12 STYLES

RIMLESS—FRAMES OXFORDS

GLASSES COMPLETE

Single vision sphere, or compound lenses, unifocal, in the form of the distinctive styles as illustrated, ground in our own precision laboratory.

PAY AS LITTLE AS 50c A WEEK NO EXTRA NO DELAY

omni-vision 2ND FLOOR

630 WASHINGTON ST. OPTICIANS

ABOVE LESSE STREET STATION BOSTON DISPENSING OPTICIANS EXAMINATIONS ACCURATELY FILLED

Edward VIII Must Select Queen From 5 European Princesses

One
Of These
May Be
Ruler

KING'S DEATH ENDED HOPES FOR OTHERS

London, Jan. 21 (AP)—With the ascendency of the 41-year-old Prince of Wales to the throne the last "hope" that he might marry a commoner disappeared today for literally thousands of women throughout the world.

For years, particularly since his visit to the United States and Canada in 1919, a torrent of letters has poured in on the blue-eyed bachelor "Prince Charming"—blushing timid billets-doux, or bold, circé-styled "proposals."

Now, as bachelor king, the new monarch was far removed from such romantic offerings. By the law governing royal marriages in England, the king may marry only a royal princess.

Five princesses, headed by Irene of Greece and Juliana of the Netherlands, appear to be the only ones eligible to sit with Edward on the British throne.

The others are Catherine of Greece, sister of Irene, both sisters of George II king of the Hellenes; Eugenie of Greece, cousin of the Greek monarch, and Kyre of Russia, daughter of the Grand Duke Cyril.

Most of the new monarch's friendships, however, have been with women whose social ratings were high but who were not of royalty.

Dancing Partners

Among Edward's notable favorites as dancing partners have been Viscountess Adam, who died with five others in the crash of a chartered plane flying from Le Touquet to Crotoy; Mrs. Dudley Ward, and more recently the dark-eyed Mrs. Ernest Simpson, the former Miss Watlie Warfield of Baltimore, Md.

Mrs. Simpson is one of the most fashionable Americans in London society and is regarded as a close friend of the bachelor king.

The mass of letters coming to the prince from unknown commoners have been addressed to plain "David Windsor, esquire, York House, London," or to "His Royal Highness, Edward, Prince of Wales, St. James' Palace, London."

But these epistles never reached the eyes of David Windsor, Esquire, or his Royal Highness, Edward, Prince of Wales. Instead a head secretary conigned them to an extra large waste basket, designated for that specific purpose.

Queen, 3 Sons at Bedside As King George Died

By DAVID P. SENTNER

International News Service Staff Correspondent

Sandringham, Jan. 21 (INS)—From members of the household staff, who had kept a five-day vigil, it was learned today how King George died.

It was just as he would have wished, in his own favorite four-poster bed, surrounded by his beloved family, with his favorite dog, Bob, at the foot of the death bed, and a fire crackling in the fireplace.

All through the late hours of the night the royal family, knowing the King could not live to dawn, stayed close to his bedroom.

Before the King began losing consciousness, the Archbishop of Canterbury talked to him, and then the Queen and their children were summoned into the room.

DOG ENTERS

Another friend and confidante, Bob, a Cairn terrier, was permitted to enter.

His master was too feeble to recognize the pet, so Bob knew something was wrong.

The King pressed the hands of all his children.

To the Prince of Wales he whispered: "God bless England!" the prince nodded solemnly, without rising.

Half unconscious, the King spoke to the Queen last. Only she will know what he said.

Then, like a ship sailing to a far-off placid sea, the sailor King lapsed into complete unconsciousness. Some time was all over. Dr. Williams entered the royal gates like any other residence.

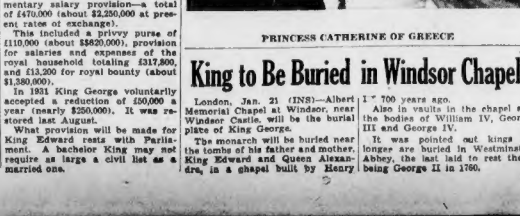

PRINCESS IRENE OF GREECE

PRINCESS KYRE OF RUSSIA

PRINCESS EUGENIE OF GREECE

PRINCESS JULIANA OF HOLLAND

Oak Coffin for King

Sandringham, Eng., Jan. 21 (AP)—King George will be buried in a simple oak coffin carefully fashioned in the workshops of the royal estate by men who served the monarch for years.

The wood used for the coffin is from trees felled on the Sandringham grounds several years ago.

room was held until early hours of the morning.

The Archbishop of Canterbury conducted family prayers, and blessed the new king. The Queen, the Prince of Wales and Duke of Kent and York, who had ruled for less than 12 hours as a regency council, conferred quietly.

The only member of the royal family not present at the death of the king was the Duke of Gloucester, who was the fifth member of the regency.

He was confined to his bed in Buckingham palace with a sore throat, but was kept constantly informed of his father's condition by telephone.

What provision was made for the King's pay?

London, Jan. 21 (AP)—What is the pay of a British King?

King George and Queen Mary received in the civil list—the Parliamentary salary provision—of £470,000 (about $2,250,000 at present rate of exchange).

This included a private purse of £110,000 (about $480,000), provision for salaries and expenses of the royal household totaling £217,000, and £135,000 for royal bounties (about $590,000).

In 1931 King George voluntarily accepted a reduction of £50,000 a year (nearly $220,000). It was restored last August.

What provision will be made for King Edward's estate with Parliament? A bachelor King may not require as large a civil list as a married one.

King to Be Buried in Windsor Chapel

London, Jan. 21 (INS)—Alfred Memorial Chapel at Windsor, near Windsor Castle, will be the burial place of King George IV.

It was pointed out kings no longer are buried in Westminster Abbey, the last laid to rest there being George IV in 1760.

Also in vaults in the chapel are the remains of William IV, George III and George IV.

The monarch will be buried near the tomb of his father and mother, King Edward and Queen Alexandra, in a chapel built by Henry

III 700 years ago.

Also in vaults in the chapel are the remains of William IV, George III and George IV.

It was pointed out kings no longer are buried in Westminster Abbey, the last laid to rest there being George IV in 1760.

Also in vaults in the chapel are the remains of William IV, George III and George IV.

It was pointed out kings no longer are buried in Westminster Abbey, the last laid to rest there being George IV in 1760.

Also in vaults in the chapel are the remains of William IV, George III and George IV.

It was pointed out kings no longer are buried in Westminster Abbey, the last laid to rest there being George IV in 1760.

3 BAD Men Denied BAIL

CONVICTS HELD IN FATAL DASH

Three ordinary-looking youths were arraigned in Suffolk superior court today on five counts each of assault and battery with a dangerous weapon, on one count of robbery while armed and one of attempting to escape.

They pleaded not guilty to all charges. They were held without bail.

But they were not ordinary youths after all, as the room full of armed guards and watchful court officers attested.

The youths were "Turkey" Joyce, James Frank, a forger; Charles O'Brien and Edward McArdle. They participated in the sensational escape attempt from State Prison, December 3, in which one prison employe and two convicts were slain.

"Peels Innocent"

Before the three youths were taken into court, their mother, holding them in leash, one of the unknowns uttered a remark.

"Wall 'ill you hear 'Turkey' Joyce. He's tough, that one."

He didn't look tough. He looked peaked, unkempt and very young. He was 20.

He didn't sound tough as he pleaded "Not guilty" to each of the five assault and battery counts. "Positively not guilty" is a charge of armed robbery.

He didn't sound tough as he was asked to plead guilty not guilty to a charge of escaping.

He said: "I shouldn't plead to that. I certainly don't feel guilty."

He didn't sound tough when he asked the court for permission to speak. Permission granted, he said:

"How'n I going to get round 'er? I been in solid and they won't let me speak to anyone."

Judge John Gibbs told him that a county warden would take a message out for him.

No Bail Money

"Yeah, but my family hasn't no money to get one anyway. But I ought to have a counsel."

He didn't sound tough when he was asked to plead guilty not guilty to a charge of escaping.

He said: "I shouldn't plead to that. I certainly don't feel guilty."

He didn't sound tough when he asked the court for permission to speak. Permission granted, he said:

"How'n I going to get round 'er? I been in solid and they won't let me speak to anyone."

Judge John Gibbs told him that a county warden would take a message out for him.

No Bail Money

"Yeah, but my family hasn't no money to get one anyway. But I ought to have a counsel."

He didn't sound tough when he was asked to plead guilty not guilty to a charge of escaping.

He said: "I shouldn't plead to that. I certainly don't feel guilty."

He didn't sound tough when he asked the court for permission to speak. Permission granted, he said:

"How'n I going to get round 'er? I been in solid and they won't let me speak to anyone."

Two-Day-Old Baby Saved

When illness overtook two-day-old Joan Fitzgerald of Lowell in the wake of the big storm, a snow plus, followed by a police cruiser car, rushed her to the hospital. There her father gave blood for a transfusion. The queer combination of events saved her life.

JOAN FITZGERALD NATHLEEN CLEARY

State House Briefs

Governor Curley will leave tomorrow at 5 p. m. by train, for Washington to attend a White House dinner and reception. He will be accompanied by a secretary and Adjutant-General Rose.

Commissioner of Education James G. Reardon today opposed the petition of Senator Joseph A. Languish of Boston for teaching of foreign languages in public schools.

M. J. Downey, assistant superintendent of Boston schools, and Headmaster Miller of Brookline high school also opposed the petition.

Relief from a water shortage was demanded, by citizens from West Auburn at a hearing today before the Public Utilities Commission.

They sought action against Auburn Water Co.

Proprietors of bowling alleys urged enactment of the Lane bill to include bowling among "sundry sports." The Rev. Robert Watson, for the Lane bill League, in opposition, said they were interested only in financial aspects.

"Cracked lawyers," selling personal injury cases, pocket the money and let doctors and hospitals "chisel" for their just dues. Senator Charles G. Miles of Brockton charged before the Committee on Judiciary. He urged his bill to provide security for medical and hospital charges.

Ledge Saves Man In Quarry Plunge

On the icy lip of the Grey Rock quarry in Quincy today, Dan Fabrizio, 38, WPA worker, lost his footing, plunged toward the bottom, 125 feet down.

But he landed 20 feet down, on a narrow ledge, unconscious, his legs dangling over.

Two workers on the ledge, 105 feet above the quarry bottom, grabbed him as he started to roll, pulled him back to safety. They were Carl Puk, 24, of Cleveland, and Giacomo Cestari, 39, of Grey Stone street, both Quincy.

Larry McDonald of Franklin street, Quincy, descending a ladder to the ledge, revived Fabrizio and gave him first aid.

Quincy Police sent a stretcher on ropes and Fabrizio was lifted in it to the top, taken to Quincy City Hospital. Bodily cuts and bruises he suffered possible fracture of lower leg, but will be able to go to his home in Center street, West Quincy, tomorrow.

Goodwin Victor In Number Fight

Judge Edward F. Pierce of Suffolk supreme court today dismissed a petition asking that Frank A. Goodwin, registrar of motor vehicles, be adjudged guilty of contempt of court.

Justice Pierce said there was no evidence presented by the respondent, Nicholas W. Mahney of Commonwealth avenue, Boston, which would warrant a contempt order.

Mahney brought action when he failed to receive number plate 015 this year. The number instead was issued to Charles Mannion, former chauffeur for Governor Barker.

Barbara Holmes is waiting for a suit from police. You will find her in the Free Rental Bureau, on the fourth floor of R. H. White's.

CHARITY To Cut Tax BURDEN

SUPPORT OF FUND URGED

If the total of $3,750,000 sought by the 1934 Community Fund campaign is reached or even surpassed, the tax situation throughout the state will be materially aided.

But if the campaign should fall short of its goal, increased welfare expenditures in municipalities in the state will result, bringing higher tax rates.

This warning was made by Charles P. Howard, chairman of the Commission on Administration and Finance after a conference with Thomas W. Sullivan, vice-chairman of the industry and finance division of the campaign.

"Support of the private hospitals, the health and social agencies of the 1934 community fund campaign is a matter vital to the community spirit of the Commonwealth," said Howard.

"The success of the campaign for the 100 agencies participating in Greater Boston represents important success for similar campaigns in other sections of the state."

Jury Picked to Try Scottsboro Case

Decatur, Ala., Jan. 21 (INS)—Without a negro member, a jury of ten farmers, a carpenter and a man in the ranks of the unemployed was completed today to weigh the fate of Haywood Patterson, one of nine negro defendants in the Scottsboro case.

Victoria Price, one of the two white girls the negroes are accused of mistreating aboard a freight train March 25, 1931, was the state's first witness.

Easy

St. Paul, Jan. 21 (AP)—The mercury stood at 29 below at one Minnesota point. Game Warden William F. Munch, remembering that Star Line, Fair, West, Earth Reservation Indian, predicted "much easier" much later last fall, wanted to know how he knew. "Me as white man putting on storm window and banking house," Star In The Face proudly explained.

$58,204,000
FOR SECURITY

Washington, Jan. 21 (INS)—Recommending a deficiency bill of $58,204,000, the House appropriations committee today sought to provide funds for operation of the new federal social security act, rendered ineffectual six months by the filibuster of the late Senator Huey Long in the last session.

A total of $42,664,500 is recommended for the security program, considered ample until the close of the fiscal year, 1935.

$3,927,000 for the labor department's children's bureau and $3,708,000 for public health service.

85th Birthday Sale!

FOR 4 DAYS ONLY

Wednesday, Thursday,
Friday and Saturday

BUCILLA De Luxe
Knitting Cotton

3 skeins for

Regularly $100
45c per skein

UTOPIA
Knitting Worsted

334 ounce hanks

Regularly 49c each

Mail and Phone Orders Filled—Call HUBBARD
2700 Until 10 P. M.

ART ENTHUSIASTS DEPARTMENT—FOURTH FLOOR
MAIN STORE

STIRRING SCENES MARKED MONARCH'S 25-YEAR REIGN

HE'S NOW EDWARD VIII—The person you knew as the Prince of Wales, shown here during a military event, is now King of England. From Sandringham comes word that he will select the name of Edward. His grandfather was Edward VII.

AT THE FRONT — This photograph of Queen Mary and King George was made on the British Western Front, shortly after war clouds had dispersed in November, 1918. They trod the fields where thousands of their subjects died in battle.

ON CORONATION DAY—Memorable day in the lives of the late King George V and his royal consort, Queen Mary, was that of their coronation, more than a quarter of a century ago. The picture was taken on that occasion. It shows them in their coronation robes, the king wearing a cloak of ermine, the queen resplendent in jewels beyond price.

NEW KING AS CHIEF—In 1925, when the Prince of Wales toured Canada and stayed for a time at his ranch in Alberta, this photograph was made. He was honored by some of his father's red-skinned subjects.

PRINCE OF WALES AS BABY IN ARMS—The new King of England is pictured as a baby in the arms of his father, King George V, who died yesterday. This baby is now King. His father at the time of this portrait was then the heir apparent to the throne.

THE OLD—THE NEW—The camera snapped King George and Queen Mary as they chatted with the Prince of Wales, just as their carriage leaves Westminster Abbey. They attended a Thanksgiving service conducted after the King had recovered from a long illness. It will be to this historic edifice that the body of King George V will be taken from the castle at Sandringham for burial services. Thousands will pass his bier as it lies in state at the abbey.

COLONEL IN INDIA—During one of his several tours of India, this picture of Wales was made showing him attired in the costume of one of his regiments. Six different regiments on one tour made the Prince of Wales their colonel.

(Pictures from International News Photograph Service)

England's New King in Publicity's Glare Ever since Birth 42 Years Ago Next June

SPEEDING HORSEMAN CARRIED FIRST NEWS OF YOUNG PRINCE DESTINED TO RULE THE LAND

London, Jan. 21 (AP)—The fierce glare of publicity focussed on the Prince of Wales—now assuming the throne as King-Emperor—by the press and the people of almost all the literate world began playing upon him 42 years ago this coming June.

There were telegraphs and fast-working printing presses in those days, just as there are now, but the first people outside the royal family who knew that a prince had been born into the direct line of succession to the British throne, heard of it as their ancestors had learned of such happy events for ages—from the shouts and cries of a speeding horseman.

This horseman, a gentleman who had proudly predicted that the first of Queen Victoria's great-grandchildren would be a son, posted himself outside White Lodge, Richmond, as soon as he learned that the new Queen Mary had given her announcement there.

In the early hours of the morning of June 21, the Prince was born, jumping into the saddle, the horseman rode quickly into London, a few miles down the Thames, shouting as he went, "A Prince! A Prince!"

The noise of his voice and clatter of his horse's galloping hoofs awoke dwellers all along his route. To the first of his death, this gentleman-crier boasted that he was the first to announce the Prince's birth.

He was right, no far so those who lived near Richmond were concerned, but London first got the news by telegraph. By the time word came, the Prince was in the world, and people had set out for the parks and decks and outdoor pools, the bells of nearly all the churches in London and through the rolling green countryside of England were ringing a gladsome acclamation.

Popularity Grows

The public enthusiasm for the Prince of Wales, which began that day as a national thing grew to be a national thing. His popularity has no boundaries, and is shared heartily by millions of people who do not speak his language or know anything much about the empire and the subjects he is destined one day to call his own.

Queen Victoria was not present at the birth of her great-grandson, but the old and feeble sovereign, who was the first to go to Richmond to see him. She was staying at Windsor Castle, and she rode further up the Thames, at the time, and drove over by carriage to hold the newborn Prince in her arms, on the second day after his entry into the world.

Democratic peoples who live elsewhere than in Europe are often amazed at the popularity of the Prince, and especially royal ones, at the baptismal fests of countries which support monarchies.

The Prince of Wales, with seven Christian names, Andrew, Patrick, David, has been an especial infatuation of nations by his identification to the democratic followers of one or two of his names, three Christian appellations.

He was called Andrew after his great-grandfather, the Prince Consort of Queen Victoria. He was named Christian after his mother, who sat upon the throne of Denmark, from whose family his grandmother, the late Queen Dowager Alexandra, came to England to become a bride. The other four names are those of the patron saints of the countries that comprise the United Kingdom—George for England, Andrew for Scotland, Patrick for Ireland and David for Wales.

To the world the Prince is known by his first name. He signs himself "Edward" but it is by his last name that his family and his intimate friends call him. Among kin and friends, he is simply "David," and he will continue to be known until he comes "Your Majesty," to everyone.

Long Favorite

With Queen Victoria he was, of course, the favorite, destined one day to sit upon his mother's throne. He was a strong part of the making of the little Prince, with his golden curls, was one of the few who could smile to do what "Granny" wanted. He was not a sturdy child.

On the contrary he was unusually amenable to the wishes and requests of others, and from an early age he was a favorite of the world "No."

With all his renowned amiability, his eagerness to fulfill more than his duties, his democratic spirit and manners, he still was a favorite when to use, with unbecoming will, that short forefinger.

Until he was ready to take up college studies, the Prince of Wales was educated by private tutors. The first of these came into his life when he was the late Madame Bliska, a French woman.

When he was three years old, he was taken to the Palace of Versailles, where he was acquainted with the A. B. C. of his own language before he was introduced into French and German. His childhood was almost as happy as his manhood has been, with few unoccupied hours.

There were lessons in three languages to learn, and arithmetic, which he did not like and never was pressed to continue after he had attained a sound understanding of figures and quantities and grasped the bare first principles of geometry. Most of all the studies he liked history, and the lives of bygone kings and queens.

The Prince's first real experience of military matters was as a corporal in the royal guards, and when it was he liked the game, a real soldier was called in to drill him and his gaymates. Actually he was not interested in military matters as a corporal, but he was interested in the life of a soldier.

The Prince's first real experience of military matters was as a corporal in the royal guards, and when it was he liked the game, a real soldier was called in to drill him and his gaymates. Actually he was not interested in military matters as a corporal, but he was interested in the life of a soldier.

The Prince's first real experience of military matters was as a corporal in the royal guards, and when it was he liked the game, a real soldier was called in to drill him and his gaymates. Actually he was not interested in military matters as a corporal, but he was interested in the life of a soldier.

The Prince's first real experience of military matters was as a corporal in the royal guards, and when it was he liked the game, a real soldier was called in to drill him and his gaymates. Actually he was not interested in military matters as a corporal, but he was interested in the life of a soldier.

The Prince's first real experience of military matters was as a corporal in the royal guards, and when it was he liked the game, a real soldier was called in to drill him and his gaymates. Actually he was not interested in military matters as a corporal, but he was interested in the life of a soldier.

The Prince's first real experience of military matters was as a corporal in the royal guards, and when it was he liked the game, a real soldier was called in to drill him and his gaymates. Actually he was not interested in military matters as a corporal, but he was interested in the life of a soldier.

The Prince's first real experience of military matters was as a corporal in the royal guards, and when it was he liked the game, a real soldier was called in to drill him and his gaymates. Actually he was not interested in military matters as a corporal, but he was interested in the life of a soldier.

The Prince's first real experience of military matters was as a corporal in the royal guards, and when it was he liked the game, a real soldier was called in to drill him and his gaymates. Actually he was not interested in military matters as a corporal, but he was interested in the life of a soldier.

The Prince's first real experience of military matters was as a corporal in the royal guards, and when it was he liked the game, a real soldier was called in to drill him and his gaymates. Actually he was not interested in military matters as a corporal, but he was interested in the life of a soldier.

The Prince's first real experience of military matters was as a corporal in the royal guards, and when it was he liked the game, a real soldier was called in to drill him and his gaymates. Actually he was not interested in military matters as a corporal, but he was interested in the life of a soldier.

The Prince's first real experience of military matters was as a corporal in the royal guards, and when it was he liked the game, a real soldier was called in to drill him and his gaymates. Actually he was not interested in military matters as a corporal, but he was interested in the life of a soldier.

The Prince's first real experience of military matters was as a corporal in the royal guards, and when it was he liked the game, a real soldier was called in to drill him and his gaymates. Actually he was not interested in military matters as a corporal, but he was interested in the life of a soldier.

The Prince's first real experience of military matters was as a corporal in the royal guards, and when it was he liked the game, a real soldier was called in to drill him and his gaymates. Actually he was not interested in military matters as a corporal, but he was interested in the life of a soldier.

The Prince's first real experience of military matters was as a corporal in the royal guards, and when it was he liked the game, a real soldier was called in to drill him and his gaymates. Actually he was not interested in military matters as a corporal, but he was interested in the life of a soldier.

The Prince's first real experience of military matters was as a corporal in the royal guards, and when it was he liked the game, a real soldier was called in to drill him and his gaymates. Actually he was not interested in military matters as a corporal, but he was interested in the life of a soldier.

The Prince's first real experience of military matters was as a corporal in the royal guards, and when it was he liked the game, a real soldier was called in to drill him and his gaymates. Actually he was not interested in military matters as a corporal, but he was interested in the life of a soldier.

The Prince's first real experience of military matters was as a corporal in the royal guards, and when it was he liked the game, a real soldier was called in to drill him and his gaymates. Actually he was not interested in military matters as a corporal, but he was interested in the life of a soldier.

The Prince's first real experience of military matters was as a corporal in the royal guards, and when it was he liked the game, a real soldier was called in to drill him and his gaymates. Actually he was not interested in military matters as a corporal, but he was interested in the life of a soldier.

The Prince's first real experience of military matters was as a corporal in the royal guards, and when it was he liked the game, a real soldier was called in to drill him and his gaymates. Actually he was not interested in military matters as a corporal, but he was interested in the life of a soldier.

The Prince's first real experience of military matters was as a corporal in the royal guards, and when it was he liked the game, a real soldier was called in to drill him and his gaymates. Actually he was not interested in military matters as a corporal, but he was interested in the life of a soldier.

The Prince's first real experience of military matters was as a corporal in the royal guards, and when it was he liked the game, a real soldier was called in to drill him and his gaymates. Actually he was not interested in military matters as a corporal, but he was interested in the life of a soldier.

The Prince's first real experience of military matters was as a corporal in the royal guards, and when it was he liked the game, a real soldier was called in to drill him and his gaymates. Actually he was not interested in military matters as a corporal, but he was interested in the life of a soldier.

The Prince's first real experience of military matters was as a corporal in the royal guards, and when it was he liked the game, a real soldier was called in to drill him and his gaymates. Actually he was not interested in military matters as a corporal, but he was interested in the life of a soldier.

American Friend of Prince

Pluched Friend of Prince

POPULAR FROM CRADLE WITH ALL SUBJECTS

born English children are taught to do, but seemingly the favor greatly cared for the game, and has not played it at all in recent years.

The Prince has been several times in point-to-point steeplechase, and has also received some hard knocks. Bruises and contusions he has experienced several times, and he has also received some hard knocks. Bruises and contusions he has experienced several times, and he has also received some hard knocks.

No matter how busy and active in a physical way his days have been, the Prince has always been willing and anxious to dance when night came.

He is just the most graceful dancer one could meet, but it would be difficult to find one more courtly or enthusiastic. He never seems to tire of the game, and he has been in Canada during a hot spell he retired three times during a dance to replace coolers and had will.

The Prince of Wales, without doubt, has been photographed more times and in a greater variety of circumstances than any man who ever lived. Almost everything that he does in his daily life, except toilet and hair, has been recorded on the films or plates of the camera.

The Prince is a practical farmer and a successful breeder of pedigree cattle. One of his cherished possessions in his ranch in Canada, in 1911, when he was in Canada, the Prince acquired a ranch near the foothills of the Rocky Mountains which he has since visited, and to which he frequently has shipped blooded stock from the pastures of the motherland.

One of the many incidental tasks the Prince has been forced upon the Prince of Wales has been that of setting the style for what the well-dressed man should wear.

The aristocracy and the wealthy of the Continent, to some extent, have followed the Prince's lead in the adoption of his style for what the well-dressed man should wear.

The aristocracy and the wealthy of the Continent, to some extent, have followed the Prince's lead in the adoption of his style for what the well-dressed man should wear.

The aristocracy and the wealthy of the Continent, to some extent, have followed the Prince's lead in the adoption of his style for what the well-dressed man should wear.

The aristocracy and the wealthy of the Continent, to some extent, have followed the Prince's lead in the adoption of his style for what the well-dressed man should wear.

The aristocracy and the wealthy of the Continent, to some extent, have followed the Prince's lead in the adoption of his style for what the well-dressed man should wear.

The aristocracy and the wealthy of the Continent, to some extent, have followed the Prince's lead in the adoption of his style for what the well-dressed man should wear.

The aristocracy and the wealthy of the Continent, to some extent, have followed the Prince's lead in the adoption of his style for what the well-dressed man should wear.

The aristocracy and the wealthy of the Continent, to some extent, have followed the Prince's lead in the adoption of his style for what the well-dressed man should wear.

The aristocracy and the wealthy of the Continent, to some extent, have followed the Prince's lead in the adoption of his style for what the well-dressed man should wear.

The aristocracy and the wealthy of the Continent, to some extent, have followed the Prince's lead in the adoption of his style for what the well-dressed man should wear.

The aristocracy and the wealthy of the Continent, to some extent, have followed the Prince's lead in the adoption of his style for what the well-dressed man should wear.

The aristocracy and the wealthy of the Continent, to some extent, have followed the Prince's lead in the adoption of his style for what the well-dressed man should wear.

The aristocracy and the wealthy of the Continent, to some extent, have followed the Prince's lead in the adoption of his style for what the well-dressed man should wear.

The aristocracy and the wealthy of the Continent, to some extent, have followed the Prince's lead in the adoption of his style for what the well-dressed man should wear.

The aristocracy and the wealthy of the Continent, to some extent, have followed the Prince's lead in the adoption of his style for what the well-dressed man should wear.

The aristocracy and the wealthy of the Continent, to some extent, have followed the Prince's lead in the adoption of his style for what the well-dressed man should wear.

The aristocracy and the wealthy of the Continent, to some extent, have followed the Prince's lead in the adoption of his style for what the well-dressed man should wear.

The aristocracy and the wealthy of the Continent, to some extent, have followed the Prince's lead in the adoption of his style for what the well-dressed man should wear.

The aristocracy and the wealthy of the Continent, to some extent, have followed the Prince's lead in the adoption of his style for what the well-dressed man should wear.

POPULAR FROM CRADLE WITH ALL SUBJECTS

POPULAR FROM CRADLE WITH ALL SUBJECTS

POPULAR FROM CRADLE WITH ALL SUBJECTS

born English children are taught to do, but seemingly the favor greatly cared for the game, and has not played it at all in recent years.

The Prince has been several times in point-to-point steeplechase, and has also received some hard knocks. Bruises and contusions he has experienced several times, and he has also received some hard knocks. Bruises and contusions he has experienced several times, and he has also received some hard knocks.

No matter how busy and active in a physical way his days have been, the Prince has always been willing and anxious to dance when night came.

He is just the most graceful dancer one could meet, but it would be difficult to find one more courtly or enthusiastic. He never seems to tire of the game, and he has been in Canada during a hot spell he retired three times during a dance to replace coolers and had will.

The Prince of Wales, without doubt, has been photographed more times and in a greater variety of circumstances than any man who ever lived. Almost everything that he does in his daily life, except toilet and hair, has been recorded on the films or plates of the camera.

The Prince is a practical farmer and a successful breeder of pedigree cattle. One of his cherished possessions in his ranch in Canada, in 1911, when he was in Canada, the Prince acquired a ranch near the foothills of the Rocky Mountains which he has since visited, and to which he frequently has shipped blooded stock from the pastures of the motherland.

One of the many incidental tasks the Prince has been forced upon the Prince of Wales has been that of setting the style for what the well-dressed man should wear.

The aristocracy and the wealthy of the Continent, to some extent, have followed the Prince's lead in the adoption of his style for what the well-dressed man should wear.

The aristocracy and the wealthy of the Continent, to some extent, have followed the Prince's lead in the adoption of his style for what the well-dressed man should wear.

The aristocracy and the wealthy of the Continent, to some extent, have followed the Prince's lead in the adoption of his style for what the well-dressed man should wear.

The aristocracy and the wealthy of the Continent, to some extent, have followed the Prince's lead in the adoption of his style for what the well-dressed man should wear.

The aristocracy and the wealthy of the Continent, to some extent, have followed the Prince's lead in the adoption of his style for what the well-dressed man should wear.

The aristocracy and the wealthy of the Continent, to some extent, have followed the Prince's lead in the adoption of his style for what the well-dressed man should wear.

The aristocracy and the wealthy of the Continent, to some extent, have followed the Prince's lead in the adoption of his style for what the well-dressed man should wear.

The aristocracy and the wealthy of the Continent, to some extent, have followed the Prince's lead in the adoption of his style for what the well-dressed man should wear.

The aristocracy and the wealthy of the Continent, to some extent, have followed the Prince's lead in the adoption of his style for what the well-dressed man should wear.

The aristocracy and the wealthy of the Continent, to some extent, have followed the Prince's lead in the adoption of his style for what the well-dressed man should wear.

The aristocracy and the wealthy of the Continent, to some extent, have followed the Prince's lead in the adoption of his style for what the well-dressed man should wear.

The aristocracy and the wealthy of the Continent, to some extent, have followed the Prince's lead in the adoption of his style for what the well-dressed man should wear.

The aristocracy and the wealthy of the Continent, to some extent, have followed the Prince's lead in the adoption of his style for what the well-dressed man should wear.

The aristocracy and the wealthy of the Continent, to some extent, have followed the Prince's lead in the adoption of his style for what the well-dressed man should wear.

The aristocracy and the wealthy of the Continent, to some extent, have followed the Prince's lead in the adoption of his style for what the well-dressed man should wear.

The aristocracy and the wealthy of the Continent, to some extent, have followed the Prince's lead in the adoption of his style for what the well-dressed man should wear.

The aristocracy and the wealthy of the Continent, to some extent, have followed the Prince's lead in the adoption of his style for what the well-dressed man should wear.

The aristocracy and the wealthy of the Continent, to some extent, have followed the Prince's lead in the adoption of his style for what the well-dressed man should wear.

The aristocracy and the wealthy of the Continent, to some extent, have followed the Prince's lead in the adoption of his style for what the well-dressed man should wear.

First National Stores

NEW ENGLAND WEEK

BIG SAVINGS

ON NEW ENGLAND PRODUCTS

To bring New England Products closer to the attention of New England Home-makers we are offering an outstanding list of foods manufactured right here in New England. These foods have earned a reputation of quality throughout the country and this week we are offering them to you at substantial savings.

Baker's Cocoa	8 oz Tin	9c
Prudence Beef Hash	Big 1 1/4 Lb Tin	21c
Rumford Baking Powder	12 oz Tin	21c
Friend's Beans	3 Kinds 28 oz Tins	29c
Underwood's Deviled Ham	No 1/2 Tin	21c
Gorton's CODFISH CAKES	2 10 oz Tins	25c
Pure Maple Syrup	Co-op Brand 8 oz Jar	19c
Baker's Vanilla Extract	2 oz Bot	25c
Marshmallow Fluff	2 1/2 Tin 17c Lge Tin	19c
Crysta Gelatine	2 Pkgs	25c
Maltex Breakfast Food	32 oz Pkg	23c
Elmwood Chicken Broth	13 oz Tin	10c
icardi Piccalilli	One free glass tumbler with each purchase 13 oz Jar	22c

New England Soap Products

RINSE CLOTHES CLEANER

RINSO 2 Lbs 35c

FOR FINE FABRIC WASHING

LUX 5 Lbs 9c 1/2 Lbs 21c

Lifebuoy 3 Lbs 18c

Lux Toilet Soap 3 Lbs 18c

Red Cap Window Wash 1/2 Gallon 19c

They're Priced Low

BREAD FLOUR FINEST 24 Lb BAG 79c

CHEESE MILD WHOLE MILK VARIETY Lb 23c

POTATOES U.S. No. 1 15 LBS 29c

EGGS HENFIELD BRAND CASEFUL 12 DOZ 25c

OLEO BANNER BRAND 2 Lb PKGS 25c

Raleigh Coal Tar Soap 2 Lbs 25c

Kool Soap 1 Lb 19c

Jean's Special

DATE AND NUT BREAD

CHOCK FULL OF DELICIOUS FRUIT AND CHOPPED NUTS - IT'S A TREAT

LOAF 12c

Meat Market Values

RUMP STEAK

Best Cuts Well Trimmed, juicy, Tender Heavy Steer Beef 1b 45c

LAMB CHOPS BEST KIDNEY Lb 33c

LAMB FORES PIGNED & ROLLED IF DESIRED Lb 15c

MIDDLE RIBS HILLY CURED BEEF Lb 21c

HAMBURGER FRESH GROUND LEAN MEAT Lb 19c

BEEF LIVER FRESH SLICED Lb 19c

HALIBUT FANCY WHITE Lb 21c

MACKEREL FANCY Lb 8c

OYSTERS FOR STEWING PT 25c

Fresh Fruits and Vegetables

Grapefruit Large 2 For 15c

Beets Large Bushes 2 Bunches 11c

Celery Ferny White 2 Bunches 25c

Yellow Turnip 4 Lb 10c

Atlantic Coast

THE STANDARD RAILROAD OF THE SOUTH

First National Stores

BALL FUNDS TO AID INFANTILE PLAGUE FIGHT

Funds secured throughout the nation in Birthday Ball for the President on January 20 are to be devoted to research work in the study of infantile paralysis and will offer treatment of the disease.

Millions of dollars are now required yearly, but it is hoped the cause of the disease will be discovered within the next two years.

It is hoped that $1,500,000 will be raised for the work this year. Last year a total of $1,000,000 was devoted to research and later after treatment. Two states and the proceeds went to the George W. Warren Foundation.

Ticket will be $2 value for the Boston ball to be held at the Boston Garden are being sold $1.50 at the office in 285 Washington street. Tickets may be obtained here, and at the ball headquarters, Room 200 Parker House.

666

COLDS FEVER

first day
HEADACHES
in 30 minutes

Don't Forget Dog as They Flee Fire

JOYCE

MARILYN

Driven from their Weymouth home by fire, these two charming young step-daughters of Dr. Harold A. Spaulding weren't too excited to remember their pet dog, Fritz. So here's your chance to meet the three inseparables. They're Joyce, 5; the dog, Fritz, and Marilyn, 8.

SUPREME COURT PENS RULINGS

Washington, Jan. 21 (AP)—Preparation of opinions to be announced on February 3 was begun today by the Supreme Court.

Ruling on constitutionality of the Tennessee Valley Act is expected when the two weeks' recess ends.

Over the opposition of the justice department, the court yesterday ordered immediate refund of $200,000,000 of AAA processing taxes imposed in federal courts.

At the same time it ordered immediate effect in decision holding AAA unconstitutional.

The government had asked a rehearing of the processing tax decision and was contemplating this action on AAA.

The court named February 4 for arguments on a government motion to dismiss the suit by Governor Eugene Talmadge of Georgia, challenging constitutionality of the Bankhead Cotton Production Control Act.

The decisions were agreed upon at an unusual conference yesterday after the court had adjourned for two weeks. Attaches said the justices sometimes met on Monday afternoons before closing a two weeks' recess to dispose of important pending business.

Flammation Dies

Paris, Jan. 21 (AP)—Ernest Flammarion, 90, a leading French publisher, died today.

Water Main Break Floods South End

Washington, Jan. 21 (AP)—Weakened by frost, a water main in Buckingham street, South End, burst today, shooting a geyser 30 feet into the air and flooding nearby streets and cellars of two-story buildings.

Emergency crews were rushed to the scene by the water department, while thousands of gallons of water rushed from the main, tearing a large hole in the pavement.

It was nearly two hours before the shut-off was located under the snow-laden street, and meanwhile special details of police were dispatched from police headquarters and the Warren avenue station.

Police closed off the area against automobile traffic as the water froze into a glass of ice.

Residents of apartment houses in the vicinity, aroused by the commotion, watched as the flooding water seeped into cellars, extinguishing furnace fires and causing much other damage.

Francis Conway's Funeral Planned

Plans are to be made today for the funeral of Francis Conway, 33, clerk in the City of Boston ferry service, who died of burns suffered when he accidentally set fire to a couch on which he was resting in his home in Chester street, Allston.

SCHOOL PROBE REOPENED

With the reopening of the Grand Jury probe of alleged graft in connection with the Boston school system, the appointment as supervisor of music in Boston schools.

The "conduct men" were alleged to have represented members of the school committee in a try to obtain $100 from a man seeking the appointment as supervisor of music in Boston schools.

District Attorney Foley and his two aides, Frederick T. Doyle and Garrett H. Byrne, went before the grand jury shortly before noon.

Witnesses who appeared were Patrick T. Campbell, superintendent of Boston schools, School Committee member Dr. Charles A. Mackey, Frederick H. Sullivan, Maurice A. Tobin and Joseph V. Lyons and a piano salesman.

Burns to Death

Waterbury, Conn., Jan. 21 (NS)—Apparently burned to death on his sleep Joseph Perry, 66, was found today in this mouldering ruins of the little tumble-down cabin where he lived alone.

98 Fined $650 in Worcester Raid

Worcester, Jan. 21—Fines aggregating $650 were paid in district court today as an aftermath of a raid last night at the Al Club, Front street.

George Baldwin, charged with operating a gambling place, was fined $125. Samuel Bellum and Harry Carver, alleged assistants, were fined $25 each. The 98 other men were fined $5 each.

"You don't have to be rich to enjoy rich whiskey!"

CAMEL'S MONEY-BACK OFFER STILL OPEN TO BOSTON SMOKERS

YOU'LL LIKE THEM TOO!

Read Our Invitation to You

Smoke 10 fragrant Camels. If you don't find them the mildest, best-flavored cigarettes you ever smoked, return the package with the rest of the cigarettes in it to us at any time within a month from this date, and we will refund your full purchase price, plus postage.

{Signed}

R. J. REYNOLDS TOBACCO COMPANY
WINSTON-SALEM, NORTH CAROLINA

... We who make Camels and know Camel's quality are confident you'll like them! Camels are made from COSTLIER TOBACCOS!

Camels must please you, or they cost you Nothing!

FLOYD GIBBONS' PAGE OF THRILLS AND MYSTERY

The Mountain Chase

Adventurer Goes on an Exciting Manhunt--To Save a Life

By FLOYD GIBBONS

Publication of your story may be delayed a bit while Floyd is in the war zone, because of the time it takes his mail to reach him. Floyd asks all his adventurers to "be patient with a hard working feller."

HELLO EVERYBODY:

Now here's a yarn the like of which you'll not see in another dog's age -- the simple tale of a country doctor and a country doctor's daughter--the story of a life at stake, and a reputation that might be ruined. It's a thing that might have happened to any of us. Yet it's got more real terror and anguish in it than many a book written by a pioneer explorer in one of the farthest corners of this old spinning ball we live on.

The story comes to me from Mrs. Bertie Hall Warner of Brooklyn, N. Y. In it she tells of how, in 1912, she was living with her father, R. W. Hall, a Virginia, down in the Ohio River. Bertie's Dad had a lot of patients who came to him from the outlying hill districts across the river, and among these patients was an old fellow named Black, who showed up every Saturday to get a certain powder that Doc Hall prescribed.

Old Mr. Black's wife usually came with him. They lived far out in the hills on the other side of the Ohio, and Saturday the trip into town was their big day. But one fine Saturday in September they were in a hurry to get back home. When they got to Doc Hall's office they found the waiting room full of patients. It would take an hour or more before their turn came in line, so they decided not to wait.

Bertie was her Dad's helper, and she was there in the office when it happened. It was curious sort of an accident, and here's how she explains it. "To small towns," she says, "people soon become familiar with the doctor and all his habits. One of my Dad's habits was to prepare the medicine for his regular patients and leave the packages on the table in the main office or waiting room. On this occasion, Mr. Black decided that he could help himself to his own medicine and be on his way."

But old Mr. Black made a mistake. A little while later, when Bertie went to look for another man's prescription, she couldn't find it. She did find old Mr. Black's, though, and immediately sensed what had happened. The old fellow had taken the wrong powder. And the powder he had taken was a deadly poison!

"I didn't know what to do," says Bertie. "We had no car, and Mr. Black and his wife had a long head start on us. But somehow we had to stop him before he took one of those powders. His own life, and father's reputation as a physician--both were at stake. I telephoned a doctor on the other side of the river, but they had passed there."

"Father was preoccupied by the enormity of the situation. I ran to the railroad station where a man named Henderson rented cars, but he'd left before we got there. I only had to wait a few minutes before one came in, but those few minutes seemed hours to me."

Finally, though, a car came in, and Bertie climbed in. Henderson, the owner, had a wooden driver, but he was a driver after a fashion. Also, he knew a lad who knew the people on the other side of the river. He found him and took him along.

They set out at a breakneck speed for the river. When they got there they ran into further difficulties. The only way to get across the river was by means of an old-fashioned hand ferry, operated by pulling on a cable that stretched from one bank to the other. It had broken loose and was fast out in the water when they got there, but that didn't stop Henderson. He drove right into the water after it. He got it back, drove the car aboard, and they started on the journey across the river.

It was slow going, pulling that ferry across the river. Bertie thought they'd never get to the other side. All the way over, she saw little pictures through her mind's eye of old Mr. Black reaching his home in the hills and opening that package of deadly powder--pictures of old Mr. Black riding down from the hills in a shiny black hearse--of her father's reputation being ruined and his practice going to pot, while that poky old ferry crawled at a snail's pace across the Ohio.

Eventually, they got to the other side and started up into the hills. Such a ride Bertie never had in her life. "We went over unbroken paths and up runs and creeks," she says, "until I thought I should never see home again. We went down bare hillsides, where there wasn't even a sign of a trail, drove through gulleys until finally we came to a moonshiner's place, far up the side of the mountain, and there we stopped. A car couldn't be made to go any farther into that rough, bare, mountainous country."

Henderson and the lad climbed out of the car and started off alone, leaving me behind at the moonshiner's cabin. I was there an hour, and I never spent such an anxious hour in all my life. "You know, boys and girls, it's one thing to be doing something to avert a tragedy, but it's another thing to be standing idly by, waiting for the outcome of a full hour Bertie sat there in an anguish of suspense. Then Henderson and the lad came back again--with good news! They had reached the Black homestead in time to prevent old Mr. Black from taking any of those terrible powders. They had the package with them full and unopened. A life had been saved. And Bertie's Dad's reputation as a physician was as good as it ever was."

Now there's a story that's DIFFERENT. And that's the way I like them. How do you know that that adventure of yours isn't one of the "different" kind, too. Send it in. Just see if you don't get a nice fat one mailed back to you. I have a great story ready for tomorrow. Until then--take care!

Floyd Gibbons, himself an adventurer of note, is never too busy to listen to the other fellow's experience. He wants to hear the story of the biggest thrill in YOUR life, and wants to pay you ten dollars for it. Floyd says anyone can draw down one of those ten dollar checks, or win the hundred that he gives for the best TRUE adventure story of the month. Literary ability has nothing to do with it. Send him YOUR story. Win a prize and become a member of the Adventurers' Club.

HOW TO WIN

$100.00

And Membership in The Floyd Gibbons Adventurers' Club

SECRET AGENT X-9

TIM TYLER'S FLYING LUCK

(Follow Tim Tyler in the Big Comic Section of the Sunday Advertiser)

RED BARRY

(Follow Red Barry in the Big Comic Section of the Sunday Advertiser)

MANDRAKE, THE MAGICIAN

LITTLE ANNIE ROONEY

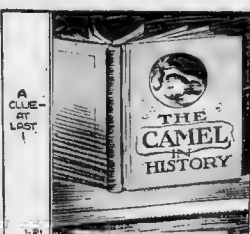

(Follow Little Annie Rooney in the Big Comic Section of the Sunday Advertiser)

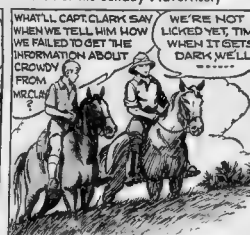

THE LITTLE WOMAN

The Last Stray

Sink or Swim

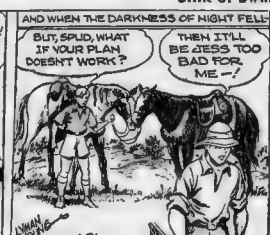

Blind Justice

How to Win

Blind Justice

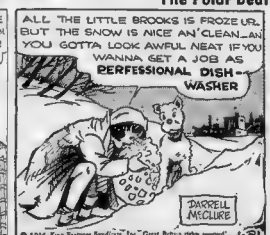

Blind Justice

Blind Justice

Blind Justice

Blind Justice

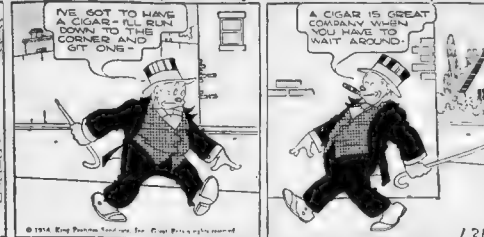

THIMBLE THEATRE, Starring POPEYE

BRINGING UP FATHER

(Follow Jiggs and Maggie in the Big Comic Section of the Sunday Advertiser)

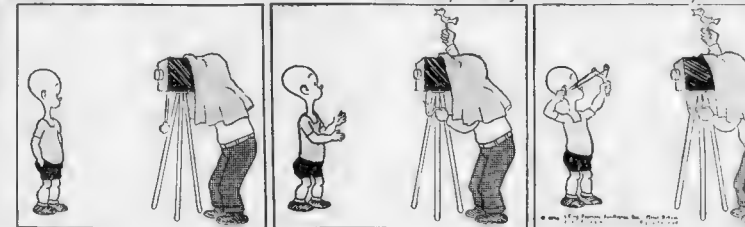

Can You Beat It?

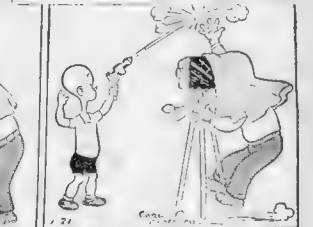

HENRY

(Follow Henry in the Big Comic Section of the Sunday Advertiser)

He Couldn't Resist

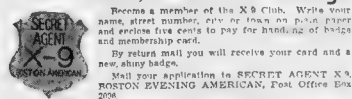

JUST KIDS

Practice Your Bow, Margy!

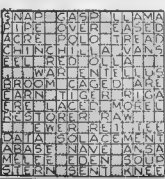

Join X-9ers; Get Your Badge

CROSS-WORD PUZZLE -- By Eugene Sheffer

- HORIZONTAL
- 1-Scottish cap
 - 2-Permit
 - 3-Recording of votes
 - 4-Mental fitness
 - 5-American humorist
 - 6-South African bulbous plant
 - 7-Of what university is Nicholas Murray Butler president?
 - 8-Give for temporary use
 - 9-Who wrote "Middlemarch"?
 - 10-Hair on neck of some animals (pl.)
 - 11-Winged part
 - 12-Speaks monotonously
 - 13-Deluxe with a snide
 - 14-Who wrote "Cyrano de Bergerac"?
 - 15-Mohammedan nobles
 - 16-Palm of the hand
 - 17-Who wrote "Midsummer Night's Dream"?
 - 18-Lowish dance
 - 19-Ale alms
 - 20-Deserve
 - 21-Remains of castle
 - 22-Melody
 - 23-Those who disbelieve in a deity
 - 24-King of bees
 - 25-Meadow
 - 26-Face
 - 27-Haken lace
 - 28-See eagle
 - 29-Anglo-Saxon slave
- VERTICAL
- 1-Involuntary twitching
 - 2-Juss
 - 3-In Greek legend, who was the hero of the Calydonian boar hunt?
 - 4-Who was the first king of Israel?
 - 5-Work hard
 - 6-Newman chief
 - 7-Beverage
 - 8-Upright architectural member
 - 9-Bovine quadrupeds
 - 10-Cover the inner surface
 - 11-Rova
 - 12-Nature of a former kingdom of central Europe
 - 13-What city of Peru contains the oldest university in America?
 - 14-Negative
 - 15-Nature of a former kingdom of central Europe
 - 16-What is the name of Xenophon's narrative of the march of the Ten Thousand Greeks?
 - 17-Part of a church
 - 18-Residue
 - 19-Resident in India
 - 20-Suit
 - 21-Intony over a bed
 - 22-What famous American actress was born Graham? (Ada)
 - 23-Unit
 - 24-Grain stirred in water
 - 25-Astern silkworm
 - 26-Urrear
 - 27-What is the longest river in the world?
 - 28-Beverage
 - 29-Number
 - 30-Take to court

YESTERDAY'S ANSWERS:

POLLY AND HER PALS

SKIPPY

THE ONLY KIND OF A BRUSH HE KNOWS

That's Too Bad

LITTLE JIMMY

(Follow Little Jimmy in the Big Comic Section of the Sunday Advertiser)

BLONDIE

(Follow Blondie in the Big Comic Section of the Sunday Advertiser)

There Ought To Be a Law!

